Friendship Forever

How long do you think friendship can last? Samuel and Ricky met each other 30 years ago, and they are still good friends now.

‘My family moved from Canada to Hong Kong when I was seven years old. I went to the primary school near my home and Ricky and I were in the same class. He was my neighbour and the first friend I made in the class,’ said Samuel. After chatting with each other, they found that they had a common hobby. ‘We both liked playing football and so I invited him to play in my football team every Saturday.’ They helped each other with their studies as well. Samuel was not good at Chinese, so they did revision together every day after school. The two friends were separated after primary school, but they still managed to keep in touch as they went to the same church, so they could see each other every Sunday. Ricky was Samuel’s best man when he got married a few years ago.

People are always curious about how they maintain their friendship. ‘When we have a disagreement, we will listen to each other’s views patiently and try to reach an agreement,’ said Ricky. ‘Being patient and considerate is the key to a long friendship,’ said Samuel.
