English World
Liz Hocking and Mary Bowen

English World is a visually stunning ten-level course which will take children through from primary to secondary. Written by the authors of best-sellers Way Ahead and Macmillan English, English World combines best practice methodology with innovative new features for the modern classroom. Active whole-class learning is supported by vibrant posters and interactive activities on the DVD-ROM. Thorough grammar and skills work is applied in natural contexts in the real world, through dialogues and cross-curricular material. English World provides a complete package for today’s teachers and pupils.

Key features
• Innovative Teacher’s DVD-ROM adds an exciting dimension to classroom teaching, and helps the teacher prepare customised materials
• Test builder on the Teacher’s DVD-ROM means teachers can produce customised progress checks
• Informative, cross-curricular and cross-cultural content means that students learn about the world through English
• The stories, topics and projects promote social values and citizenship
• ‘Learning to learn’ pages in the Workbook help pupils develop strategies such as scanning and thinking skills
• Dictionary for each level further promotes independent learning and develops valuable strategies for later study
• Projects and portfolios encourage independent learning
• Grammar Practice Books at each level consolidate pupils’ learning
• At levels 5 and 6, more reading material is adapted from real-life sources and pupils learn about the structure of different reading genres such as plays and newspaper articles

The opening spread of each unit and accompanying poster teach vocabulary through topics familiar to primary children.

Beauty illustrations and lively characters visually engage learners.

A lively dialogue presents the target structure in context and promotes fluency.
People live in all parts of the world. Most people live in towns and cities but other people live hundreds of kilometres from the nearest city. They live on high mountains, in hot deserts and on snowy plains. They keep animals for food. They make their clothes and homes. They are different to people who live in large towns and cities because they do not need lots of shops, cars and buses. They do not use much electricity or water.

Weavers of South America

The Incas lived in Peru in South America. Five hundred years ago they were very rich and powerful. They had many large cities and they were good fighters. They had gold, silver and jewels. They kept many animals and they had good food and clothes. Then explorers from Spain came. They fought the Incas and captured their king. After that, the Spanish ruled over the Incas.

The Incas spoke the Quechua language. Quechua people are still living in Peru today. They keep sheep and goats in the mountains. They get wool from the animals. They spin the wool and weave it into cloth. They make patterns in the cloth. The patterns are like the old Inca patterns.

Women carry their babies or food and vegetables in the cloth. Men and women wear Quechua costumes and dance.

Each village has its own special patterns. This means the fabric is different.

Children learn ‘Grammar in conversation’ dialogues in real settings

The material takes pupils into different subject areas to expand their vocabulary and prepare them for studying other school subjects in English.
Footprints

Carol Read

Beautifully illustrated and appealing to both children and teachers, this six-level course is designed to meet the needs of teachers and learners who have a high number of contact hours in English. Footprints provides a strong emphasis on cross-curricular content with clearly identified language aims that acknowledge the increasing trend towards content-based learning.

Levels 1 and 2 take students on a magical journey, meeting well-known fairy tale characters to find the treasure at the end of the rainbow.

Levels 3 and 4 continue the idea of a quest but the context moves away from the world of fairy tales to one of mystery and adventure, working with the children’s growing maturity and awareness of the world around them.

Key features
• Strong story element uses a series of clues and riddles to lead the learner to the next episode and to solve the puzzle
• Cohesive identity develops throughout the six levels, growing with the level and age of the learner
• A clear language progression in harmony with CEF descriptor bands and the Cambridge ESOL and Trinity YL exams
• Intercultural learning reflects the increasing importance of this aspect of the CEF
• Extensive range of photocopiable worksheets caters for varying needs including materials for mixed-ability classes, wordlists, advice for parents and exam practice pages

CD-ROM
Contains 36 interactive games relating to the key language in each unit of the Pupil’s Book. It can be used independently in the classroom or at home.

Here Comes Super Bus

Maria José Lobo and Pepita Subirà

This four-level course for young learners aims to build children’s confidence and develop their linguistic, social and emotional skills. By making English fun and enjoyable, Here Comes Super Bus lays down the foundations for future language learning and encourages children to use English as a means of real communication.

Key features
- Takes advantage of all opportunities to link English with other subjects including art, music and drama
- Writing only appears after the language has been presented and experienced at oral level
- A central story helps children to listen and talk about themselves and the world around them through the safety of familiar characters

Portfolio Booklets

Linking closely with the CEF, the Portfolio Booklets help students to keep a record of their language progress. Portfolio Booklets are included in the Pupil’s Book Pack at levels 1 and 2, and in the Activity Book Pack at levels 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Portfolio Booklets are included in the Pupil’s Book Pack at levels 1 and 2, and in the Activity Book Pack at levels 3, 4, 5 and 6.

Each level of Way Ahead is accompanied by two story books. There are three plays (Readers 1C, 2C, 3C) and three information books (Readers 4C, 5C, 6C). There are also poetry anthologies which can be used with levels 4, 5 and 6.
Macmillan English
Mary Bowen, Printha Ellis, Wendy Wren, Louis Fidge, Liz Hocking

This is the first international English coursebook to be informed by English lessons in native-speaker classrooms. It combines best practice L1 and best practice L2 methodology to meet the needs of today’s teachers and learners.

Designed for students who have a high number of contact hours in English, this six-level course recognises that proficiency in English is an essential part of modern life, and that early exposure to rich and genuine language allows young learners to move confidently towards native-speaker fluency in both oral and written English.

Key features
• NEW CD-ROM for each level provides further consolidation of grammar and vocabulary
• Beautifully illustrated Fluency Book helps children develop natural intonation and provides stimulus for speaking
• Exciting 18-episode adventure story in the Fluency Book keeps young learners motivated
• Collaborative and independent writing tasks build confidence and promote cooperative learning
• Integration of both fiction and non-fiction gives students a solid basis for studying other subjects in English
• A rich variety of text types and related tasks ensure students develop higher-order reading skills from an early stage
• EAL (English as an Additional Language) – the mix of L1 and L2 methodology makes the course ideal for use within the National Literacy Framework. For more details see www.macmillanenglish.com/eal

unit 2
The Water Cycle

The reading text provides a model for the writing task. Children learn writing skills such as note-taking, helping them to study other subjects in English

Step 1: The sun heats up the water in rivers, lakes and the sea.
Step 2: When the water gets warm enough, it becomes water vapour. This is called evaporation.
Step 3: The water vapour is very light and it rises into the sky.
Step 4: When it is high in the sky, the water vapour cools under air.
Step 5: As the water vapour cools, it condenses. It turns back into droplets of liquid which form clouds.
Step 6: The wind moves the cloud so some of them float above the land.
Step 7: When the droplets join together, they get big and heavy.
Step 8: They fall from the cloud as rain.
Step 9: The rain falls into streets and lakes and flows back to the sea.
Step 10: While the water flows back to the sea, some clouds are forming in the sky.

NEW

Eight new classic stories for Explorers 3–6

The range of readers includes modern and classic fiction as well as non-fiction texts to engage children

ANCIENT GREECE

The story of Odysseus was first told by the people of Ancient Greece. They lived several thousand years ago, but we know a lot about them from the stories, buildings and art they left behind.

The Ancient Greeks worshipped many gods, and built temples in their honour. The most famous is called the Parthenon. It is in Athens, the capital of Greece.

The most powerful ruler of Ancient Greece was Alexander the Great. He was perhaps the most successful leader in the world.

Greek warriors were very good sailors. The type of ship that Odysseus and his men sail in was called a ‘pentelekester’.

The story of Odysseus is one of many Ancient Greek myths. The myths often tell of a hero who has to fight terrible monsters, such as the Minotaur, a creature that is part man and part bull.

The world’s most famous athletic contest, the Olympic Games, began in the Ancient Greek city of Olympia.

Fun, cultural and informative, this series of readers offers a great range of fiction and non-fiction titles that reinforce the basic structures and vocabulary found in most primary courses. Children will love the exciting adventures in stories such as Fantastic Freddy, The Princess and the Dragon and The Weather Machine. The Macmillan Children’s Readers series can be used as supplementary reading material with any primary course.

Key features
- A picture dictionary or wordlist and activity pages at the back of each book
- Accompanying Audio CDs give children a chance to listen as well as read the stories
- Fact files and topical fictional stories in the upper levels combine to motivate older children

Cross-curricular topics complement the fictional story in the upper levels

Beautiful photographic images in the Fact Files capture the interest of older children
